Hope Nursing Home Open House Viewed by 300

Hope Nursing Home Inspected by 300 Sunday

The Hope Nursing Home opened for a public inspection and visiting day Sunday in the former Julia Chester hospital building and a crowd of about 300 registered during the afternoon.

More than $15,000 has been spent by the Hope and Hempstead County Hospital Association to renovate the big structure on South Main St. and bring it up to state requirements for a nursing home. The association board said Sunday it holds a letter declaring the local institution's plant to be one of the best in the state.

The association has leased the renovated building to Mrs. Maude Cooper, experienced nursing home operator from Texarkana, and she is now accepting patients — the first four of whom will take up residence today.

The Hope and Hempstead County Hospital Association board comprises the following:

Syd McMath, president; L. Carter Johnson, vice president; K. G. Hamilton, secretary treasurer; and the following board members: Mrs. Arch Moore, Mrs. Roy Anderson, Mrs. Kelly Bryant, Mrs. W. Y. Foster, Mrs. Leo Robins, Mrs. E. P. O'Neal, and the late Mrs. E. O. Wingfield.

The seven women, headed by Mrs. Moore as chairman, were the operating board for the old Julia Chester hospital, and Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Anderson are two of the original board members from its organization date in 1928.

The old community hospital organization set up first in quarters on the floor above the Employment Security Division office at Second and Walnut Sts., but at the same time acquired from Mrs. S. L. Bracy the present site of the Julia Chester building for $3,500. Later the association borrowed $14,000 from the late William A. McCartney, Texarkana hotel man, repaying the loan in record time.

Zoo Orangoutang Unravels Wire Cage

SAN FRANCISCO (U) — The feud at Fleishacker Zoo rages on between ape keeper Bill Wills and Linda B., a red-haired orangoutang.

Wills hastened to Linda's quarters to find her hanging from the top of her cage by her hind feet and tail while she methodically unwound the wire mesh of the ceiling, using her hands and teeth.

The ape was bribed down with a bunch of grapes. While she sat munching Wills sealed a ladder and nailed a wooden patch over the foot-wide hole Linda had unraveled.

Wills found she had torn off the patch, throwing heavy nails to the ground as she went, and unwinding more wire mesh.

He called in a fence construction crew this time. "They did a professional job and guaranteed it. Wills isn't so sure."

Labor Day Death Toll Reaches 300, Likely to Surpass Prediction

NATO Eyes Red Ships Moving to Mediterranean

LONDON (UP) — NATO naval forces today were reported maintaining a close watch on a squadron of Soviet warships moving down the coast of Europe toward the Mediterranean Sea.

The Soviet warships—the heavy cruiser Zhdanov and four destroyers—steamed out of the Baltic Sea Sunday, tailed by a Danish naval patrol.

It was another in the series of Soviet naval movements which has led Western naval observers to suspect a Russian fleet buildup in the Mediterranean, possibly to attempt to balance the influence of the U. S. 6th Fleet in the waters west of the simmering Middle East area.

Radio Moscow and the official Yugoslav news agency said the Soviet warships were heading for Yugoslavia on a courtesy call.

"A squadron of five warships of the Red Banner Baltic fleet, including the cruiser Zhdanov . . . sailed yesterday on a Friendship visit to Yugoslavia," Radio Moscow reported Saturday.

Naval sources here said British or Norwegian units of the NATO north Sea command would help shadow the Soviet warships. Other NATO naval units will keep close watch when the Soviet squadron steams past Gibraltar and into the Mediterranean, the source said.

At least five more Soviet warships, including two heavy cruisers, are in the Mediterranean, heading toward Albania. The Soviets are believed to have a major naval base at Albania's Saseo Island.

Stassen Still Optimistic Over Talks

WASHINGTON (U) — Harold Stassen flies back to London today for a final round of five-power disarmament talks before the whole problem is returned to the U. N. General Assembly.

Stassen arrived here Friday to attend his son's wedding and to talk with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles. He took the line that Russia is still seriously negotiating.

Other American officials generally feel now, however, that the disarmament issue has passed into a phase of "all-out" propaganda conflict and that the semblance of negotiation at London has "been lost."

Stassen met with Eisenhower and Dulles briefly at the White House. The meeting is understood to have been inconclusive except for a reported piece of advice by Eisenhower — that the United States should get ready for a full-fledged debate in the U. N. General assembly on the arms talks.

Proxmire Plans Re-election

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — Wisconsin's newly-elected Democratic Sen. William Proxmire arrived home from Washington Sunday night and announced plans to begin an immediate campaign for re-election in 1958.

Proxmire and his pretty wife, Ellen, have been on a whirlwind schedule since his election Tuesday as the first Democrat to represent Wisconsin in the U. S. Senate in 25 years.

Proxmire was sworn in as a senator Thursday, in time to vote in favor of the civil rights bill, and adjourned with Congress the following day. He appeared on a television program, "Open Hearing," and then left for Madison by plane.

Proxmire was met at Truxton field airport by about 1,500 persons. He told them he owed his recent victory over Republican Walter Kohler mainly to the support of his Dane County followers.

"My election is only the first step for Wisconsin Democrats," Proxmire said, "and I plan to start now to campaign for the 1958 election that will make this a Democratic state."

Worst Still to Come as Drivers Start for Home

By The Associated Press

Traffic	317
Drawings	49
Miscellaneous	64
Total	420

Traffic deaths across the nation mounted steadily today and the toll for the three-day Labor Day holiday appeared likely to reach, or perhaps surpass, a prediction of 420.

With the most perilous period—the homeward trek of millions of motorists from holiday outings — yet to come, the toll of dead from automobile accidents already had passed the 300 mark today.

"The death toll is tragically following the figures used in making advance estimates," said Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council. "The worst is still to come with the homeward rush of highway travelers. There will be a fearful last minute crush."

The council had estimated a death toll of 420 for the 78-hour period from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight tonight (local time).

Dearborn said unless the trend changes the final toll will be close to the council's prediction.

The count in the first 33 hours of the holiday period showed about 150 fatalities. In the next 24 hours, however, the total was more than 160.

During last year's three-day Labor Day holiday there were 425 traffic deaths. Nonholiday test survey made by The Associated Press during a recent 78-hour weekend showed 370 auto fatalities. The record traffic toll for Labor Day was 461 for a three-day period in 1951.

One of the worst accidents during the holiday occurred yesterday near Effingham, in southern Illinois. Five persons turned to death when their car plunged into a ditch and burst into flames.

Eight Persons Meet Death in Arkansas

By The Associated Press

Eight persons have died on Arkansas highways so far during the Labor Day weekend, one over the toll predicted by State Police. The holiday, which began at 6 p. m. Friday ends at midnight tonight.

Three persons were killed in three separate accidents yesterday.

George Woods, 36, a Negro of rear De Witt, died when his car struck a bridge abutment four miles east of De Witt said Woods' wife and five children were hospitalized at Little Rock with undetermined injuries.

Woods was attempting to pass a truck when a front tire on his car blew out, Vanderford said.

Jack McCoy, 20, of Jerusalem in Conway County, was killed in the collision of a car and pickup truck about three miles north of Atkins on state Highway 105. State Trooper John Scott said Herbert Chonister, the truck driver, was injured slightly.

Wayne Davis, 13, of Heber Springs, died in another car-truck collision 12 miles south of Clinton on U. S. Highway 65. The victim's brother, Charles, 17, was hospitalized with serious injuries at Clinton.

Civil War Vet, 100, Dies in Florida

CRESTVIEW, Fla., (AP) — William A. Lundy, a 100-year-old veteran of the Civil War, died last night, leaving the ranks of the once-proud Confederate army to two aged men.

Death came to "Uncle Bill," as he was affectionately known to thousands, in a hospital, shortly after he had been moved there from the home of a son, Charlie, with whom he had resided for the past several months.

Suffering from a high fever, the aged veteran was taken to the hospital about 3 p.m. Death came 2½ hours later to the man who, at 16, served with a unit of the Home Guard at Elba, Ala.

Members of Lundy's family reported Aug. 27 the old veteran had not recovered as well as expected from a gall bladder operation he underwent in March and barely was able to stand.

The remaining Confederate veterans are Walter W. Williams, 114, who lives with a daughter in Houston, Tex., and John Saling, 111, Slant, Va.

Albert Woolson, the last Union survivor died last year at 109 in Duluth, Minn.

In addition to Charlie, Lundy is survived by three daughters and five sons.

"Uncle Bill" was fairly active almost to the time of his death. Only a short time ago he was able to get around by hitching a wooden sawhorse ahead of him.

His eyesight, he frequently boasted, was so sharp he could shoot a squirrel out of a tree with a shotgun.

Lundy was proud of his Confederate background although he served only in the Home Guard and never took a shot at a Yankee soldier.

Asked by the Chamber of Commerce during his last few days if he could fly his large Confederate flag from a pole outside his home, he declined to allow his beloved Stars and Bars to leave his bedroom wall where it was on proud display.

"I want it where I can see it," he aged rebel, almost bedfast at the time, said.

He was lonely during his last years although visitors by the score found their way down the dusty road to the small white cottage where he and his son lived.

"He tried to fight off his loneliness by sitting on the front porch and summoning almost every passer-by to stop and chat with him."

But when he was asked how it felt to be almost the last survivor of the gray-clad hosts of the Confederacy, his faded eyes would fill with mist and he would say, "It's lonesome, lonesome."

Honors were piled upon "Uncle Bill" in recent years. At the time of his death he was looking forward to being the guest of honor at a park dedication to be held here soon.

A special general's uniform of his beloved Confederate gray was being made for him to wear at the ceremonies.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Graham Ends Crusade With Mass Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Graham transformed the environs of Times Square into a massive open-air church last night at the windy of his 3½ month New York crusade.

A huge throng stood hushed and reverent as loudspeakers carried the evangelist's plea to "Save a Soul." The speakers' platform was south of 42nd Street. An ocean of faces looked up at Graham from all around. The crowd stood shoulder to shoulder from building to building.

Gospel songs rang out at the "crossroads of the world" usually echoing with jute box jive. Lights from the Broadway theaters and big advertising signs cast a bright glow over the assemblage. A brilliant moon rose as Graham spoke.

Business went on as usual in nearby bars, restaurants and theaters.

As Graham concluded his sermon, he asked for a show of hands by those who would dedicate their lives to Christ. Thousands of hands — impossible to count — waved in the gathering dusk.

Graham said: "Here in Times Square is the dope addict, the alcoholic, the harlot — alone with the finest citizens of the world. It is primarily a place of amusement, money making, drinking, eating and making merry."

"Tonight for a few moments it is being turned into a great cathedral as a symbol of spiritual revival that is now in progress in the United States. Let us tell the world tonight that we Americans believe in God."

Graham estimated during his talk that 200,000 persons were in the crowd.

Chief Inspector Thomas A. Nielsen of the Police Department estimated the crowd at 75,000. "I counted them," he said.

Later, Graham said in a statement: "Before I went on the rostrum I was told that the attendance was over 200,000. Certainly any one present knows that it was far more than the police estimate of 75,000."

"I doubt that any one will ever know exactly how many were present, but I am certain that it was the largest crowd I have been my privilege to address."

The crowning of Miss America will take place Saturday.

51 Girls Seeking Miss America Title

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Fifty-one talented and beautiful girls register today for the rich harvest of publicity and prizes that go to Miss America, 1958.

Excited early birds with their retinues of family and local officials began converging on this resort city yesterday. At the end of a week of pageantry, one of the 51 will be the queen.

Some of the girls brought good luck charms. Miss California, 18-year-old Lorna M. Anderson, has a pair of white shoes she has worn in every contest she ever entered.

Valerie Joy Strong, Miss Michigan, 21, clutched a silver dollar.

Contestants from 43 states, Canada, Puerto Rico, Hawaii, Chicago, New York City and Washington, D. C., will vie for $30,000 in scholarships after registering today.

The crowning of Miss America will take place Saturday.

Ask Calmness in Little Rock Integration

By SY RAMSEY

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Ministers pleaded for calmness and order in the scheduled integration of a high school here tomorrow while Gov. Orval Faubus nervously watched for "anything that might occur" in a city where surprises have occurred recently.

About 15 Negroes are expected to enroll in Central High School, which has 2,000 students.

They gained final legal clearance Friday when a federal court told the school board to go ahead with its gradual integration plan and ordered segregationists not to interfere.

Yesterday the president of the Greater Little Rock Ministerial Alliance wrote to 250 ministers and religious leaders asking them to plead with the public for orderly conduct during the beginning of racially mixed classes in grades 10 to 12.

"As ministers we share a heavy responsibility in maintaining good will and understanding," the Rev. Dunbar H. Ogden Jr., said in the letter.

Many pastors in their Sunday sermons called for orderly compliance with the federal desegregation decisions.

Reaction from segregationists was mixed.

Atty. Amis Guthridge, a key figure in several court moves to delay or block integration here, had no comment.

Mrs. Clyde Thomason, whose suit to ban school integration was nullified by federal court after a brief victory in a state court last week, had "no plans whatsoever."

"I'm not a lawbreaker," she said.

Jim Johnson of Corsett, who ran unsuccessfully against Faubus last year on an outspoken segregation plank, sent a telegram to the governor saying that "your authority to maintain domestic tranquility of the State of Arkansas cannot be successfully challenged in any court."

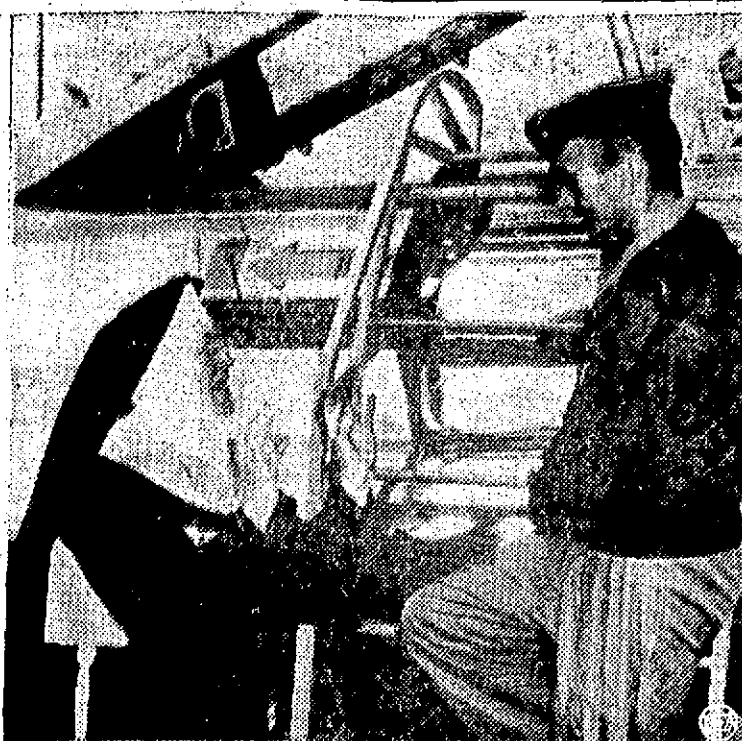

Johnson did not specify exactly what he suggested to the governor.

Thieves Steal Safe From a Church

WIGHTIA, Kan. (AP) — Thieves stole a heavy safe containing about $2,000 in cash and checks from Grace Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Liberty Wasson, director of religious education, stopped at the church office about 10 p.m. and discovered the safe was missing.

Hugh Herring, criminal investigator for the Police Department, said there were no signs of forcible entry. There were no evenling services at the church. Officials said the money in the safe included Sunday offerings and some other church funds.

Miss O'Hara May Testify at Trial

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — The prosecutor in the Confidential criminal trial indicated today that red-haired Maureen O'Hara may be one of two "surprise" rebuttal witnesses slated to attack defense testimony that the actress cuddled with a "Latin lover" in the rear of a movie theater.

Dept. Dist. Atty. William Ritz indicated he planned to call two witnesses when the trial resumes Tuesday.

"I can tell you whether the two witnesses will be movie stars," Ritz said. "I can only say that they will be able to recognize their names."

Indications that Miss O'Hara will take the stand grew with the prosecution's suggestion that the jurors see for themselves if it could have been possible for Miss O'Hara to engage in a torrid love scene in the now famed "row" of Grauman's Chinese Theater.

The six men and six women in the jury will visit the theater Tuesday to inspect the seats where a Confidential Magazine story described the "cuddling" occurred.

Ritz maintains that it would have been impossible for a couple to make love sprawled across the theater's seats.

Miss O'Hara angrily denied "out-of-court" that the story was true. The defense has gone to great lengths in an attempt to prove that Confidential reported the truth about the actress.

Meanwhile, Defense Attorney Arthur J. Crowley disclosed Sunday that he had found "new witnesses" who will testify that Miss O'Hara cuddled with a "Latin."

He said the alleged off-camera escapade took place in February of 1954 and not November, 1953, as a defense witness previously testified it did.

Miss O'Hara had produced a passport and other proof that she was in Spain in November, 1953.

"Hardware is my Business"

"To me the satisfaction of supplying people with quality merchandise and service is the outstanding reward of running a hardware store. There are high industry standards for the tools, appliances and supplies that I handle, and in selecting merchandise for my customers, I make sure that my stock meets these rigid requirements. To keep people reminded of my store and services and to announce new merchandise, I use newspaper advertising regularly. It's an effective way to send the news about my store to the people in this community."

All businessmen are aware of the standards of quality, weight and measure that are used in evaluating the merchandise which they buy and sell. It is also possible to buy newspaper advertising on the basis of definite standards, namely, the information in the reports of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

The A.B.C. is a cooperative, nonprofit association of 3,575 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies.

Its purpose is to provide advertisers with accurate information about the cir-ulation of its publisher members. At regular intervals the A.B.C., of which this newspaper is a member, sends an experienced circulation auditor to make a thorough inspection and audit of our circulation records. The FACTS thus established are published in an A.B.C. audit report which tells you: How much circulation we have; where it goes; how obtained; how much people pay for our paper; and other FACTS that you need in order to KNOW what you get for your advertising money.

Advertisers are invited to ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

Clues Studied in Chicago Torso Slaying

CHICAGO (UP)—Authorities today studied a growing mound of objects dredge from a Lake Michigan harbor by 100 skin divers in hopes of finding clues to the torso murder of 15-year-old Judith Mae Andersen.

Some 3,000 persons watched as the divers, equipped with oxygen masks, made an inch-by-inch search of the 12-to-76-foot deep Montrose Harbor where the victim's body was found floating in two oil drums.

Among the items brought up from the harbor bottom were a 12-inch U. S. Machine bolo knife, a sledge hammer, a "zip gun" containing a .22 caliber bullet, a rail spike, a brown-stained rubber mat and pair of men's shoes.

Police began scientific tests of the objects in an effort to determine if any of them were used in connection with the gruesome killing.

A special police task force searching Chicago's Northwest side reported several persons in a neighborhood about four miles from Judith Mae's home heard a woman screaming early in the morning of Aug. 17.

They told authorities the woman screamed: "You're going to kill me. You might as well kill me or anyway." Judith Mae had disappeared hours earlier while on her way from the home of a girl friend.

The victim's torso was found stuffed in an oil drum in the harbor Aug. 22. Her head and hands were found two days later in another oil can in the harbor.

Gunman Kills Two, Sought in 2 States

DECATUR, Neb. (UP)—Authorities in two states today sought an enraged gunman who shot and killed two persons, savagely beat his wife and left her for dead and wounded his father-in-law.

The Nebraska Safety Patrol found the abandoned car of Arthur McCluskey, 37, Omaha, southeast of here Sunday night.

McCluskey fled in the car Saturday night after killing Mrs. Ida Stoddard, 59, his mother-in-law, an Orville Brewer, 60, a friend of the family.

He then beat his estranged wife, Betty, 29, with a crow bar and shot and beat his father-in-law, Glenn Stoddard, 68. Stoddard was shot in the shoulder and clubbed with the butt of McCluskey's gun.

Mrs. McCluskey, who left her husband in May, said her husband stopped beating her when she feigned death. She was hospitalized in Blair, Neb.

Sheriff Walter Dean said Mrs. McCluskey and the couple's four children were living at the farm home of her parents near here. He said McCluskey visited the Stoddard home and apparently went berserk when his wife refused to return with him.

The Stoddards and Brown were playing cards in the kitchen when McCluskey went on his wild shooting spree. He fired three shots through a screen door, fatally wounding Brewer and Mrs. Stoddard.

Stoddard, although wounded, escaped and fled to a neighbor's home where he called police. McCluskey forced his wife to accompany him to a home they formerly occupied in Decatur where he continued the brutal attack.

Iowa police were alerted to aid in the search for McCluskey along the Missouri River area.

Finds Alligator in His Back Yard

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—Not even Southern hospitality demands that one be nice to a snapping 250-pound alligator who comes calling at your house.

A. W. Brister and his neighbors were downright unpleasant when they found an eight-foot alligator in Brister's back yard.

A neighbor, W. B. Joseph, spotted the creature in the middle of a bayou in back of the Brister home. He told Brister and the latter ran for his shotgun and planted a load of buckshot in the alligator's head.

The alligator sank to the bottom of the bayou, but Brister and his neighbors pulled the still scrappy creature out with grappling hooks. Flailing it with axes and clubs failed to dent its inch-thick hide so they roped it with a wire and strung it up to a tree, where it died.

Wayne, 505 N. Hazel, Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Noble, boy, Johnnie, 619 S. Laurel, Hope; Mr. Thomas Tyree Jordan, girl, Robin, 905 S. Laurel, Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Louis Conway, girl, Joyce Diane, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Hawkins, girl, Cora Lee, Route 2, Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Woods, girl, Henrietta, Route 1, Fulton.

THIS IS THE EDESEL, Ford Motor Company's newest entry in the medium price car field, available in 18 models in four series—Ranger, Viceroy, Coronet and Citation. The entire line will go on display in all Edsel dealerships Sept. 4th. Shown is the Viceroy four-door hardtop. From its vertiginous grille, dual headlights and wraparound turn indicators through the single chrome side spear and concave sculptured "leopard" side scapell, the Edsel gives an impression of motion even when parked. In addition to its dramatic styling, the Edsel offers a wide range of exclusive engineering features including "Teletouch" push button automatic transmission controls located in the steering wheel hub.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix: My problem concerns a man—what else? Ferdie and I went together for about two years. I never could make up my mind whether I loved him or not, but he declared his love for me regularly. Finally, I guess he got discouraged. Met Brenda, and married her. It was at this point, oddly enough, that I realized he was absolutely the only man in the world for me. I can have other boy friends, but they're all wash-outs compared to Ferdie. What can I do to get over him?

PINING AWAY

Dear Pinning: "Pining" went out of fashion along with mohair parlors. Unlike some of the more charming aspects of the Victorian era, it has never been revived. The modern girl accepts defeat gallantly, nurses her broken heart for a very brief spell, applies a bandage, and goes out hunting again. In due time she finds another man, and having learned her lesson wisely, lands him! So, in sympathy form, we have: girl meets boy, girl loses boy, girl finds a new romance.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I just had a telephone call from a boy asking for a date next week; the boy broke off with me two months ago without giving an explanation. I like him very much. Should I go on the date? I told him to call back in a few days and I'd let him know.

JESSICA

Dear Jessica: Don't be an "available" lass. The boy owes you an explanation for the breakup; get it first.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I've been married eight years, and have four children. My husband has a very good job, provides adequately for us, and is a good father. He says he wants a nice home with good furniture (which he could afford), but he's afraid he might die and another man would reap the benefit of his hard work (my next husband that is).

WORRIED WIFE

Dear W. W.: How silly can one man get! Or is this some wild reasoning to justify stinginess? Remind him that you would be working hard to keep this nice home in good condition and that it's just as conceivable that you'd die and Mrs. Second Wife would come into a beautifully kept house. Harp on that subject a bit, as he has done.

Dear Dorothy Dix: It seems that parents are traditionally opposed to steady dating by their teen-age sons and daughters. Well, here's one parent who approves. I have five youngsters, the youngest a boy of 17. He's going steady with a sweet girl of his own age, and the girl's parents approve as much as we do. We always know where the youngsters are and we know they're in good company. They're both deeply religious people with high principles. Isn't it better to

Atomic Testers Making Up Lost Time

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UP)—Scientists made up lost time for numerous weather-caused delays early today by triggering the 16th nuclear blast of the Atomic Energy Commission test series at the Nevada proving grounds.

The shot, dubbed "Gullco," was fired at 5:40 a. m. (P.D.T.) (8:40 a. m. E. D. T.) from atop a 500-foot steel tower. It was the third atomic test within four days.

A gigantic fireball, changing in color from bright red to orange, zoomed skyward as the blast vaporized the steel tower. The force of the nuclear explosion was equal to 10,000 tons of TNT, about one half the size of the atomic bombs which were dropped on Japan during World War II.

Animals ranging from guinea pigs to goats were huddled in shelters within three miles of ground zero. Scientists used the animals instead of "human guinea pigs" to test what the AEC termed as "biological environment."

The animals were placed in shelters designed to protect people in atomic warfare. Scientists also disclosed the animals were used in conjunction with a "missile studies" project. The AEC said it would not know until the test area was cleared for entry whether the dozens of animals survived the terrific blast.

A research group participated in a human action's experiment following the detonation. About 100 Army troops with full combat equipment ran through an obstacle course about 4,800 yards from where the tower stood seconds before. The test was aimed at testing the reaction of human beings under "atomic combat conditions."

The vivid flash from the shot was seen some 300 miles away in Los Angeles. The near-blinding flash appeared as a glossy white in Hollywood. Early rising residents at Las Vegas, Nev., Reno, Nev., and along the California border also got a glimpse of the pre-dawn spectacle. Shock waves shook News Nob where about 100 newsmen witnessed the shot. News Nob is about eight miles from ground zero. The shocks also were felt in Las Vegas and were heard as "rumbles within a 100 mile radius of the proving grounds."

Twenty Air Force planes streaked over the proving grounds as the huge fireball blossomed into a mushroom-shaped cloud. The planes carried equipment to check radiation and also participated in giving support to a mythical advancing ground force.

Service Back at Work With State Dept.

WASHINGTON (P)—John Stewart Service returns to work at the State Department tomorrow just as if he had never been fired as a security risk nearly six years ago.

Service, 49, is a veteran Foreign Service officer. His career, started in 1935, centered in the Far East, particularly China. His new job, similar to that he had when he was fired, will put him in charge of supplies and transportation questions, with no access to secret information.

Dean Acheson, secretary of state in the Truman administration, fired Service Dec. 13, 1951, after the Civil Service Commission's loyalty review board ruled there was a reasonable doubt as to Service's loyalty. A lower board had cleared him a year earlier of the security risk charges.

The Supreme Court ruled June 17 the review board had no right to reopen the case, and last July 3, Federal Dist. Judge James W. Morris ordered Service restored to his job with back pay to Dec. 14, 1951. The judge held Service was improperly discharged by Acheson.

Service was expected to receive about $18,000 as the difference between the $11,850 annual pay he would have received and the money he actually drew while in the export business in New York City after his discharge.

The State Department said today the precise amount of back pay still is being figured out. His new salary also is still to be determined.

Kidney Transplant Proves Successful

BOSTON (AP)—Fourteen year old twin sisters from De Soto, Mo., who underwent kidney transplant surgery yesterday, were reported as doing well today at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Surgeons remove a healthy kidney from Doris Huskey and transferred it to her critically ill sister, Delores, whose kidneys are diseased.

The hospital said results cannot be determined for at least 72 hours after the operation. It will take that long to determine whether the transplanted kidney will function properly.

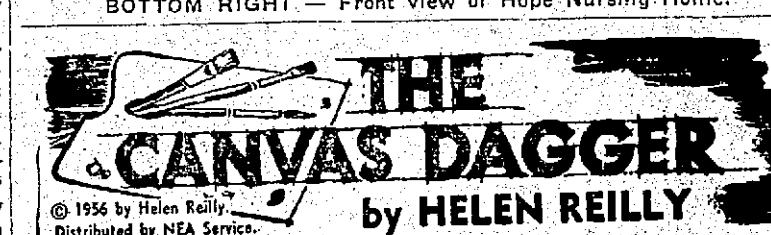

It was the fifth such operation performed at the hospital by the same team of three doctors on identical twins.

Before the operation Doris said she would not be able to live with herself if she did not give Delores one of her kidneys.

THE STORY: Tom Gillespie warns Sarah Casement not to continue her efforts to discover whether Grant Melville's death was murder. "Let the police handle it," he says.

CHAPTER VII

The ease between them had evaporated. It was gone. Tom Gillespie was no longer on her side, he had switched his allegiance. If there was anything to be done she would have to do it alone. Anger sparked her. The idea of going home and sitting with folded hands was intolerable — there was something to do — and no time like the present.

The actions of the man named Dennert were definitely suspicious; he had been on the scene both before Grant Melville died and when Zita called from her window that morning. Mrs. Melville had Dennert's address, she had said so when he was leaving the sitting room — but not the Melville house. Get his address from Mrs. Melville and go and ask Mr. Dennert, boldly, why he had been searching Grant Melville's desk. He wasn't a man to be afraid of, and he couldn't eat her.

Sarah didn't succeed in going alone. While Gillespie was paying the bill she used the booth in the lobby and a puzzled Mrs. Melville gave her Dennert's address, but in front of the restaurant Gillespie got into the cab with her. He said, "I'm seeing you home," and she was going. He started to expostulate, and give it up. "Self-willed, aren't you?"

Sarah laughed and took the cigarette he handed her. "The word is resolute."

Dennert wasn't in his room on East Eighth Street. Sarah would have missed him but Gillespie's quick eye picked him up near the corner, getting into a cab with a brief case in his hand. His face his narrow-shouldered figure, and above all this sad hat, were clearly visible in the light of a store window. His cab started north on Third. Tom Gillespie spoke to their own driver. "Follow I want to catch up with the man in that car ahead. Keep him in sight, will you?"

Ed Wynn, Active at 71, Has Many Fine Memories

By HAL BOYLE

SCHROON LAKE, N. Y. (AP)—Nearing 71, Ed Wynn, a glib titan of the show world for two generations, can still stand on the first step of a flight of stairs and bend down and touch the ground.

And his mind remains as flexible as his body and his marvelously mobile face.

Next month the American Theater Wing will pay tribute to "The Perfect Fool" in a 90-minute television show honoring his 55 years as an entertainer.

But Ed, a performer who has done everything in his fabulous career except be shot out of a cannon is even more excited by his new rise to stardom after many said he was through as a dramatic actor. He plays Uncle Samson in "Marjorie Morningstar."

of the little Chinese desk was up. Wind had blown an accumulation of bills and letters to the floor. She picked them up.

There was writing in pencil on the back of one of the unopened envelopes. She read the hasty scrawl. "Sarah. Where are you? Been here since four. Have to go. If Carlotta comes tell her I'll be at the hotel. Drink three cans of beer. Thanks, love — and come on, Steve."

Steve was Steven Task and he and his wife Carlotta were old friends of Sarah's. They lived in the house next to her Aunt Grace's summer place on Cape Cod, and they had a key to her apartment, and had stayed with her once or twice when they were in New York, which, as very occasionally.

Steven and Carlotta . . . Grant Melville . . . something as coming . . . When Melville walked over to his studio window just before he died his clean-shaven face had said nothing to her; when she saw his bearded self-portrait over the mantel weeks later she realized that she had seen him before but couldn't recall where. She knew now where she had seen him. It was on board a dragage owned by a friend of Steven's in the Blessing of the Fleet in Provincetown the previous June.

Her Aunt Grace had been there that day. Moving like a zombie, Sarah went to the telephone and called her aunt's home in Larchmont.

Thinks South Pacific Best of Musicals

By BOB O THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The reviewer's corner—

"South Pacific" has come and gone on the local legit scene, again creating the impression with this theater goer that it is the best of all musicals.

"Yes, I know there are those who will advocate 'Show Boat,' 'Oklahoma' or 'My Fair Lady,' but I stick to my guns. To me, it still seems the tops.

Even after a third viewing, it still is fresh. Perhaps the war seems a bit more distant now, but the sentiment of the two love stories remains evergreen. The music is superb. There may be better songs in other shows, but "South Pacific" has the most serviceable score of them all.

Perhaps the show's greatness lies in its complete departure from previous musicals. It has none of the usual trappings — the ballet, chorus line, production numbers.

In fact, it is more related to the motion picture in its use of montages, quick scene changes, visual and sound effects. It is a ringer for a movie, especially when Mary Martin re-creates her original role, as she did here.

"Fanny," the latest of the light opera presentations, is another matter. It harks back to the operatic school of musical and might have been written by Romberg or Friml. It has an operatic-like charm, but unfortunately lacks the melodies one expects from such shows.

"A Hatful of Rain" is a gripping new picture, and the fact that it concerns narcotics is incidental. More important is the family relationships of a group of tormented people. All the players are fine, but Anthony Franciosa has the role that is Oscar bait.

"The Sun Also Rises," but fails to cast much light on the characters in this early Ernest Hemingway work. The result is that a talented cast flounders around before some gorgeous scenery of Paris and Mexico. Errol Flynn, as a charming, destitute playboy, comes off the best. This could open a whole new career for him.

Walt Disney strikes out in yet another direction with "Perri." This time he uses nature to capture a fictional story of a squirrel and its fight for existence in the forest. The actors perform their roles masterfully, and the result is imaginative, fascinating entertainment.

The Louis Armstrong concert at Hollywood Bowl looked like a dud in the first half, when Satchmo tried to do too much singing with the full symphonic orchestra. His voice is good only for its comic qualities. When the longhair players went home and Louie came out with his own combo in the second half, then he revealed his genius. The Bowl rocked.

Decca has put out a new album of Al Jolson songs, "Among My Souvenirs," taken from his last radio shows. It's a welcome addition to the Jolson lore, proving again how pale today's singers appear beside the old master.

Nation Enjoys Labor Day Holiday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's workers enjoyed a Labor Day holiday today while their leaders in labor praised the government and their accomplishments.

President Eisenhower, sounding a note of deep appreciation men and women. In their hands, and minds is the power of our growth and the promise of continuing achievement.

Both Eisenhower and Secretary of Labor Mitchell, in formal statements yesterday, noted that employment is at the highest point in history.

Mitchell said: "Our free enterprise system, driven by the talents and skills of our people, has produced the greatest and most widely shared prosperity in our history."

Sen. Ives (R-N.Y.) referred to testimony before the Senate Rackets Committee, of which he is vice chairman, and cautioned that activities of shady characters in organized labor could bring on punitive legislation from Congress next year.

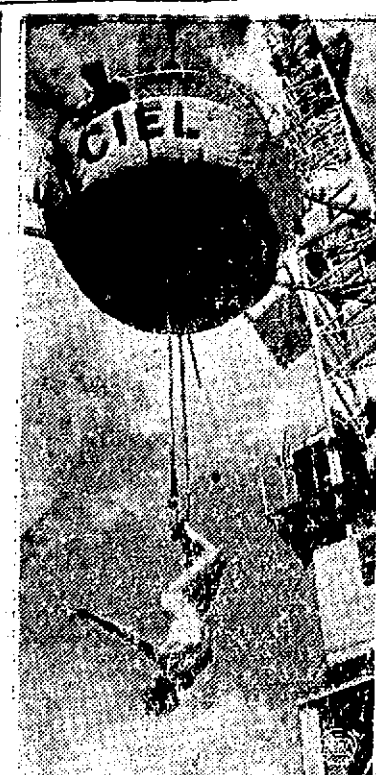

Ives said most labor leaders are honest men, but he added that the activities of a relative handful of crooks, hoodlums and men of flexible morals who have attached themselves to the labor movement threaten to give all labor a bad name.

"I don't have a formula for a long life, but if I did wouldn't sell it—I'd give it away to every one . . . don't go to church . . . But I often pray, and I feel my prayers have been answered."

"I always felt it was my mission in this world to make people laugh. I never pined to be Hamlet. Yet here I am at my age starting a whole new career—drama instead of comedy."

"Why do I go on? Because I do love the theater. I'd rather drop dead on a stage before a laughing audience than die in bed with my relatives round me crying."

"My son, Keenan, tells everybody I've got a million dollars. I wonder what he will say when he finds out all I'm leaving him is a lot of old jokes."

Teamsters Call for a Housecleaning

NEW YORK (AP)—Six of the New York City locals of the Teamsters Union have issued a call for a "clean house" campaign within the union.

The appeal was made yesterday in connection with an announcement by the locals of their support of John H. Hoh for vice president of the New York Teamsters Joint Council.

The council represents locals containing 125,000 members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters in the New York metropolitan area.

The vice presidency was left vacant by the death last Tuesday of Leonard Geiger, a close associate of John J. O'Rourke, council president.

Hoh is secretary of the Brewery Workers Joint Board, representing the six locals whose members are engaged in local brewing and beer distribution trades.

The six locals, which said they represent 15 per cent of the voting strength in the New York Teamsters Joint Council, called on all 125,000 men in the council to launch a "rank-and-file campaign to clean house."

The announcement by the six councils said Hoh, as a member of the Joint Council Advisory Board, fought the admission to the union of the seven "paper" locals that were the subject of investigation by the Senate committee.

The Senate committee heard testimony that the "paper" locals were controlled by racketeer Johnny Dio.

Hoh, in announcing his candidacy, called for a house cleaning within the union. He said, "no Senate committee or other outside agency could do the job as effectively as the rank-and-file Teamsters themselves." He said, however, that the Senate committee hearings have been constructive.

There can be mass production, there must be the power of mass consumption, made possible by high union wage standards and working conditions.

Philip M. Talbot, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said in another weekend statement that "our heritage of recognizing the dignity of all kinds of labor has, in large part, made possible our almost closest society and bestowed upon us our multiple economic blessings."

Contenting high wage rates are justified, he said that "before
